Job Title

AI Trainer/Instructional Designer

Job Overview:

Stratfield is seeking an AI Trainer/Instructional Designer to join our client's People Team. The ideal candidate will have a strong background in AI enablement, instructional design, and cross-functional collaboration. This role will be responsible for designing and delivering learning programs that accelerate AI adoption across the organization and empower teams to use AI responsibly and effectively.

This is a permanent position that will be hybrid (Onsite 3 days per week in Atlanta). Sponsorship and relocation are not available for this position.

Responsibilities:

- Collaborate with stakeholders across product, engineering, legal, compliance, and business units to identify workflows where AI can add measurable value.
- Lead and expand the AI Champion Group by facilitating meetings, providing enablement resources, and empowering champions to act as advocates.
- Design and deliver training programs, workshops, playbooks, and best practice guides to raise AI literacy across the organization.
- Conduct demos and hands-on sessions to showcase AI tools and practical use cases.
- Create and manage continuous learning initiatives, including functional learning plans and organizational strategies.
